it's a complete embarrassment not to the people whose characters are attacked but for those writing such hateful things.

it would have been ok if she had declared a salary of 50k during that year, but then she would have been taxed on that salary.